CORN EXCHANGE | IRREGULAR TURN

New York, March 5.—Reactionary sentiment was more in evidence at the opening of the cotton market today, and after starting at a decline of 2 to 20 points active months sold some 20 to 22 points under last night's closing figures. Local brokers were more inclined to attribute the easier tone to a weaker technical position following the recent extended advance than to any fresh feature in the news, but there was some bearish comment on reports of further restrictions on the output of British spinners and private Liverpool cables stating that there would be no silotment of freight for March by the British shipping controller. May sold off to 31.85c and October to 30.35c, but there was continued trade buying at the decline and later fluctuations were irregular.

The reaction extended to 31.80c for May and 30.20c for October before the end of the morning, with the general list showing net losses of 23 to 35 points. There was selling of new crops against purchases of July, which accounted for the relatively easy ruling of late deliveries, while the general list steadied toward midday on bullish spot advices, covering and New Orleans buying.

Reports that Liverpool interests were free buyers of spots in the south and a renewal of trade demand around the local ring-caused a sharp rally during the early afternoon. May sold up to 32.21c, or 11 points net higher, while October advanced from 30.20c, the early low point, to 30.53c, or within 2 points of last night's closing.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. New Orleans, March 6.—Irregularity prevailed in the early trading in cotton here today, May being 3 points up on the opening call while other months were at a slight net decline. At the end of the first half-hour prices were 13 to 19 points under yesterday's close under the cabled expect that English importers of cabled report that English importers of cotton would receive no allotment of ocean freight room. The decline was widened to 14 to 22 points, but favorable spot accounts cre-ated a fresh demand on which toward noon, the market rose to a level 2 points higher to 11 points lower than yester A new demand was felt, and in the trading up to 1 o'clock prices at their best stood 1 point under to 12 points over the final figures of yesterday.

constitution, the insidious malady with which he suffered failed to release its hold upon him. He died at his home at 206 Kirby avenue.

In spite of the odds against him, Mr. Rogers clung tenaciously to the frail thread of life. He was rewarded by a smile of fate and during the latter part of last week and Sunday apter part of last week and Sunday ap-peared by the improvement of his con-dition to have gained an advantage in his game struggle for health. This his game struggle for health. This was shortlived, however, for on Monday another stroke of a slight nature counteracted the advantage he had gained and throughout Tuesday he hovered on the brink of death. Late in the afternoon he surrendered the battle and responded to the summons of the grim reaper. \
In the death of Al H. Rogers Chattanooga has lost one of her best known and most prominent citizens, a man who had done much toward the upbuilding of the city in which he was born forty-three years ago. He was an energetic, enthusiastic booster and his death will be a keen loss to this community. As president of the Chat-tanooga Automobile club, and as a member of the Rotary club, chamber of commerce and other organizations ne lent his efforts toward the successful carrying out of movements inaugurated by these bodies. He was a staunch ally of the good roads movement, and the Dixie Highway maga-zine referred to him as another example of the old saying that the busiest men have the most time for public afmen have the most time for public al-fairs. This magazine further said of him: "In order to get work started on the Suck creek section of the Dixle highway, a fund of $16,000 was needed. Mr. Rogers put his name down on the subscription list for a liberal amount and then assisted in putting across the remainder. By reason of the splendid support given the liberty loan committee on the first issue, Mr. Rogers was placed in active charge of the second campaign. "Oversubscribed" was the result. When the Rotary club determined to put on "The Man of the Hour," for the benefit of war relief, "Al" was made chairman of the executive committee. His record of achievements for Chattanooga's wel-

FEARSOME BAYONET DRILL AT CAMP WARDEN MCLEAN Make Best of Open Weather and Grunt as They Stab Huns.

Bayonet practice is in full swing on the bayonet course at the reserve officers' training camp during this warm spring weather. With the dummies hung from scaffolds are the targets at which a company of cadets make a bayonet rush. It is fearsome work. companies go at the dummies at full tilt and let out awful grunts when the bayonet enters the withes.

Queer to say, this grunting is part of the regular bayonet attack. It amounts to a regular howl under some of the instructors. During Wednesday morning's practice one of the bayonets was broken, and a cadet got one of the steels through his hand. This was caused by some careless soldier failing to practice with his bayonet tilted up toward the sky at what is called "high point."

When bayonet practice is over the companies line up and have a foot race to rest them after their strenuous jabbing.
